Catholic High School

Anti-Bullying Policy

(In conjunction with our Behaviour Policy)

To be reviewed: September 2025

Bullying - definition.

Bullying at Stuart Bathurst Catholic High School is defined as the repetitive, intentional hurting (physically, verbally or virtually) of one person or group by another person or group – on purpose and more than once.

Bullying can be persistent:

- Emotional: purposely causing others to feel uncomfortable or unwelcome
- Physical (including sexual): unwanted or aggressive contact
- Verbal (including sexual): name calling of any kind, spiteful, hurtful or offensive comments
Indirect: spreading malicious rumours and/or jokes, behaviour that excludes others, or turning a blind-eye to unacceptable behaviour by not telling an adult
- Extortion: taking personal belongings without consent such as, money or food.
- Cyber: defined as bullying via electronic means, which is designed to upset others. This could be via the internet, phone, laptop, computer, tablet or online gaming.

Please note, the school will act, where necessary, on the balance of probability. There may be criminal laws that apply to serious cases of bullying. If staff feel that a criminal offence may have been committed, they will seek assistance from the police.

What bullying isn't:

It is important our students are aware of the distinction between anti-social behaviour, in comparison to bullying. Any such behaviour is never accepted at Stuart Bathurst Catholic High School and will be dealt with by the appropriate Head of Year/member of SLT. The tutor programme and curriculum addresses such behaviours by building self-resilience and empathy in all our learners.

When someone says or does something unintentionally hurtful and they do it once
- That's rude or thoughtless.

When someone says or does something intentionally hurtful and they do it once
- That's cruel or unkind.

When someone says or does something intentionally hurtful and they keep doing it, even when you tell them to stop or show them you're upset - That's bullying.

Vision:

A school community where the anti-bullying message is alive not only in expectation but also in practice: illustrated in the words and actions of all learners across all age groups. Our school proclaims that all members are of worth and value. No action or word that demeans another or takes away their basic human dignity is acceptable. Each and every one of us is made in the image of God and should know that we are loved by Him and are, as a result, of His love of value and worth.

The key point of the school's vision is to successfully create a school climate where there is a strict zero tolerance to bullying; every member of the school community- teachers, students, parents and carers- have a role to fulfil and a responsibility to carry out- "it is right to tell". This must be and always should be the norm. This policy is available on the school website. It should be read in conjunction with the following policies as a minimum:

Behaviour Policy (MAC and Local Arrangements)
Safeguarding Policy (MAC and Local Arrangements)
Special Educational Needs and Disability Policy

Anti-bullying pledge in Student planners:

This vision on bullying is reflected in the Anti-Bullying Pledge, which all members of the school community sign in agreement. This is produced in the student planners, which is a constant reminder of the school's stance. Additionally, in the school planners, there is further information on bullying and how to report such incidents of unacceptable behaviour.

Prevention of Bullying:

This vision on bullying is reflected in the specific Anti-Bullying work undertaken by the school, particularly in the Autumn Term. Alongside the signing of the student pledge in planners, various activities take place at that time through the SAINT/PSHE programme. These include external speakers/performers whenever possible that attempt to help, advise and get a clear message across to the students in an engaging, age-related manner.

Key small group, age and gender appropriate workshops are now undertaken to discuss the actual cause of bullying (social media, peer pressure etc). These activities all link with the other school themes throughout the Year, such as Black History Month cultural awareness, individual differences and LGBT work. Activities are also undertaken by Form Tutors in PD/SAINT sessions where anti-bullying issues are a focus for discussion.

All this work is linked to the Jesuit Pupil Profile and Catholic Social teaching which underpins all the work we do. These values are promoted in all we say and do. Our ethos and curriculum will teach children to respect difference and value diversity. Stuart Bathurst is constantly committed to seeking new and appropriate ways of promoting the anti-bullying message and, as such, will adapt initiatives, roles and responsibilities accordingly.

The anti-bullying message is alive not only in expectation but also in practice; there is a zero tolerance to bullying where every member of the school community- teachers, students and parents- have a role to fulfil and a responsibility to carry out- "it is right to tell." This must be and always should be the norm.

Reasons for bullying:

- Race, religion or culture
- Gender or sexual orientation
- Disabilities including special educational needs
- Physical/personal appearance
- Any other perceived difference

Effects of bullying:

Bullying can happen to all children and young people, which can affect their social, mental and emotional health. It can have a serious and lasting impact on a student's life; often affecting their confidence and self-esteem, making them feel at fault or isolated. In some individual circumstances, it can lead to prolonged damage of a detrimental impact on a student's mental health. Bullying can impact on its victims' attendance and attainment at school, as well as their social life and interactions with others. It is acknowledged that those bullying others have reasons for their behaviour. Those who bully rely on students not telling, and those who don't tell, are protecting them. Therefore, if this is the norm, it can be detrimental to them as well as their victims. All students should have the opportunity to be helped to understand what acceptable behaviour is.

Cyber-bullying:

Matters relating to cyber-bullying are incorporated within the school's Acceptable Use Policy, e-Safety education delivered through the curriculum, awareness raised through the tutor programme and assemblies, as well as advice correspondence to parents and carers. The school recognises cyber-bullying happens outside of school hours, which can, at times, restrict school intervention. In such situations where difficulties arise at home and/or on personal networks, parents and carers are advised to immediately contact other agencies such as, service provider and/or police. However, in such circumstances when online activity outside of school hours could impact on school life, pastoral staff will follow procedures at the discretion and judgement of the school, in line with relevant policies, and provide support where possible.

Please be reminded that it is the responsibility of the parent/carer to monitor and manage their child's interactions on social media and ensure its safe use. We will always seek to educate our young people about internet safety and always support families if and when difficult situations arise. However, the school cannot control what happens at home.

Anti-bullying procedure and outcomes:

It is important students are faith-filled in their belief in the school procedure and hopeful this issue will stop.

Should you feel the issue is not resolved, at this point, please refer to our complaint's procedure accessible via our school website.

Methods to report bullying:

Every member of the school community- teachers, students, parents and carers- have a role to fulfil and a responsibility to carry out- "it is right to tell". This must be and always should be the norm. The school encourage students to be up standers across our community; not bystanders to behaviour they know is wrong.

Students must report such behaviour by either of the following methods:

- Speak to teacher, member of non-teaching staff, tutor and Head of Year.
- Speak to parents and carers
- Confidential email to the HOY or form tutor or trusted member of staff
- Incident Form
- Student Voice
- Mr T Walsh – Assistant Principal i/c Personal Development - Anti-Bullying Co-ordinator
- Mr A Lane – Assistant Principal i/c Behaviour & Attitudes

It's important to note, such facilities can be used by students who are bullied, or have concerns relating to other students and their behaviour.

Support for children who are bullied:

If a student has been bullied the priority is help them feel safe. School staff must ensure that at all times the student's needs are paramount. The student complaining about bullying should be central to decision making about next steps. If it is needed the student must be allowed time to discuss what has happened. The parent must also be involved and reassured that the matter is being dealt with effectively and that their child is safe.

There are now a wide range of strategies which can be offered to the child being bullied. These include:

- Talking with parents
- Speaking to the other child/children
- Provision of safe area/ adult to report to
- Restorative approaches – meetings
- Provision of peer mentor
- Head of Year involved
- Bully spoken to by teacher
- Bully isolated
- No-blame strategy
- Moved class
- Teaching staff made aware
- Time Out
- Staff mentor
- Sanctions for the bully – evidence must be clear
- Behaviour Contracts
- Risk Assessments

When receiving information of bullying problems staff must act in a sympathetic manner and find out as much detail as possible.

Agreed packages of support can be written up and reviewed between the student, parent/carer and school staff. This provides confidence and clarity to the support being provided.

Interventions should:

- Avoid humiliating the student who has been bullied or further enforce their feelings of powerlessness
- Consult the student who has been bullied in the planning of the intervention strategy.
- Take steps that do not escalate the bullying
- Work to develop resilience and confidence for the student
- Avoid disruption to the student's daily routine and education
- Encourage the student who has been bullied to report any further incidents

Safeguarding policies may come into force in some rare cases where serious risk is identified. In such situations the Safeguarding Team must be informed and relevant partner agencies involved.

Support for children displaying bullying behaviour:

If a student has displayed bullying behaviour they need to recognise that their behaviour has been wrong and the reasons why. It must be clearly stated to them that Stuart Bathurst Catholic High School will not tolerate this behaviour and the consequences for them. Consequences should reflect the severity and persistence of the bullying and in line with the schools' behaviour policy.

Personal targets for the student who has displayed bullying behaviour may be included within a behaviour programme for the student. Targets will be supported by the Pastoral team.

When appropriate, restorative approaches can be included and can involve the undertaking of peer mentoring responsibilities.

Pastoral staff should provide information and advice to the student who has displayed bullying behaviour and monitor their progress and behaviour. Improvement and positive behaviour should be acknowledged and rewarded as appropriate.

Discipline Procedures:

Children who have displayed bullying behaviour must be helped to understand in that they have done wrong and there will be consequences for their behaviour. If a student is found to be bullying the usual discipline procedures should be adhered to. In some cases, it may be deemed appropriate for the child to attend a bullying awareness session. If the problems persist the behaviour policy will be followed in issuing internal exclusions or fixed term exclusions as appropriate. In rare, very persistent and extreme cases permanent exclusion may be necessary. Each case of reported bullying must be considered in its own context and discipline procedures administered appropriately. Parents/carers must be informed of their child's involvement in known incidents of bullying.

Role of parents and carers:

What to look out for:

Students who are being bullied may show changes in behaviour such as, becoming shy, anxious or nervous, simulating illness and taking unusual absences. There may be changes in attitude to learning such as concentration and focus. Please report any concerns immediately

Via telephone asking for their Tutor or Head of Year

Via email admin@stuart-bathurst.org.uk with the subject 'Bullying Concern'

The parent/carer of a student displaying bullying behaviour must be contacted by school staff and then, if necessary invited into the school to discuss the behaviour shown by their child. It is also essential that the parent/carer of the student doesn't feel isolated and that they are also getting support in ensuring that the behaviour is not repeated. Parents/carers must be informed of any bullying issues and informed of any interventions.

Role of staff:

Reassure and support the student who reports this behaviour. Advise them you are required to pass on the details to the pastoral team. Staff must promote and reinforce the notions that IT IS SAFE TO TELL and IT IS EASY TO TELL because the school finds bullying behaviour harmful and unacceptable. Staff must always listen effectively and non-judgementally when children are trying to communicate about a bullying issue, and through training and support, be fully aware of strategies that might be usefully employed in response. Senior staff and pastoral staff, have a particular responsibility to support colleagues in dealing with incidents of bullying. Consideration must also be given to individual needs and circumstances.

Staff are given regular training through whole staff meetings. This includes updates in policy, curriculum or legislation. Specific training information, findings from surveys and work with children is disseminated to staff on Inset days. Stuart Bathurst Catholic High School will support staff's needs for in-service training to help ensure that anti-bullying strategies are effective, and raise awareness of possible bullying risks and vulnerable groups/individuals.

Staff should always consider their responsibility as role models and subsequently go about their duties in an anti-oppressive manner. School staff are on duty around the college before school, during break and lunch and after school.

Pastoral staff must be informed of bullying incidents or concerns to ensure accurate recording and monitoring. Pastoral staff will work together with form tutors and other relevant staff to ensure effective intervention. Reporting of incidents should be recorded on SIMS as bullying incidents. A log should also be made on the victims Behaviour log. The pastoral team, including Heads of Year will ensure that form tutors are informed and able to monitor and support children daily. They may also decide that extra support is needed from tutors, Heads of Year, Pastoral Coordinators and/or Behaviour Mentors/Managers. However, form tutors are normally the first line of support and daily contact for children experiencing difficulties.

Parents/carers must be informed of their child's involvement in any incidents of bullying behaviour and strategies put in place by the member of staff dealing with the incident(s).

Bullying of or by school staff whether by children, parents or staff must be reported to the relevant line manager and Head of School/Executive Principal. Matters should be dealt in line with relevant discipline policy guidelines.

The role of Governors:

The Governors ensure that the policy is implemented across the whole of the school. This includes a regular review of the policy and information obtained from monitoring data and surveys. Governors also apply the disciplinary sanctions as appropriate to the circumstances. The governors are always consulted about the policy.

Bullying outside of school:

Should an incident of bullying occur outside of the school premises, for example, on public transport or in the local community, it must be reported via the methods discussed above. It will be investigated by the relevant Head of Year/Senior Leadership Team and, where necessary, acted upon in line with the Behaviour Policy. When the result of the incident is known, it will be considered whether it is appropriate to notify the police or local authority. Please note, if the misbehaviour could be criminal or poses a serious threat, in the first instance, the police must be immediately informed.

Monitoring and Evaluation:

Cases of bullying are recorded, monitored and reviewed carefully by the Pastoral Team. Reporting of incidents of bullying should be recorded on CPOMS and parental contact considered vital. The Pastoral team will try to ensure that form tutors are informed and involved in monitoring and follow up of their tutees. The Pastoral team constantly review the effectiveness of the policy and the schools' approach. The evaluation of the policy will be overseen by the governing body with the support of the Pastoral team and the working group.
